

Saving Celeste is one of the futuristic and meaningful books that is thought to be a big reminder and alert to those who harm our environment severely without realising how awful it could be to live in a polluted and corrupted environment .

The book is set in a dystopian and destroyed setting that symbolises what the future could be hiding for us and visualising how it would be like to live in future if we ignore the fact that our planet is being destroyed by human acts and that we must spread awareness globally of what is happening to our planet.

Timothée de Fombelle - the writer of the book - introduces in his futuristic novel, people who live in crowded cities where cars are stacked vertically and shopping centres situated miles into the sky. By visualising from his personal viewpoint what he thinks our future could look like he is trying to emphasise that with a destructed planet, life could be described as a 'Fake Bubble' due to the fact that without feeling the beautiful and natural taste of our life there is no purpose for us as humans to exist.

It all starts when Celeste starts school and meets a lonely boy who quickly gets excited and curious to know her , however the next day she goes missing and after many time spent by the boy to find her, he discovers that her whole body and especially her blood becomes polluted severely just as our planet. Further to that, the more our planet is polluted the more the signs of pollution show on Celeste's body. Therefore , Celeste is presented as the human form of our planet in order to reflect how our planet suffers every time a person decides to harm the environment even if it was a simple act.

Do you think it is not too late to act in reducing the pollution that has occurred on our planet and saving Celeste? Do you think that our planet will remain sturdy? Do you think that the lonely boy could save

Celeste's life?
